

Seeking and Finding

Psalm 63:1-11

Psalm 63 tells us about how to search for that which matches the longing for _____ in our hearts and whets our soul's appetite for ____ we will find in Him. David rejoices because he has found God, witnessed His power, seen His glory, and experienced His love.

Almost all we need to know about finding God and filling the void in our soul is explained in David's confession: _____. The object of the verb is "You." Finding _____, experiencing His presence and love and guidance, was David's goal.

Are you looking for God to fill the void in your soul or _____? If God is not your pursuit, the _____ will never be filled.

How do we find Him? The Scripture says "_____." This is no casual search. It is the search that spares no _____ and refuses to _____, that finds God. If you set your heart and mind on having a relationship with God, you won't _____.

The 1st word of the most important sentence in the Psalm is "____." David had to choose for himself. He had to give himself to the task of seeking. Only a _____ pursuit would lead him to the presence of God. Just like David, if you want to experience the presence of God in your life, you have to choose to seek Him _____.

The good news is that in Jesus Christ, God has come close for those who want to find Him. In Christ, the _____ became _____. Both He and the abundant, eternal life that comes from Him are more _____ than ever before. Now Jesus says, "Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears My voice and _____, I will come in and eat with that person, and they with me."

God _____ to be found. He is seeking you. If you pay attention, you can feel Him knocking. What's keeping you from opening the door?

Wherever we are in our desire to fill that hole in our souls, may David's confession be yours and mine – "God, _____."
